Description
Over the last few days, when I save a game and go to load it again, the saved game will not load. It tries to load, goes through 3-4 loading screenshots, then the circle around the keep in the lower right hand corner stops spinning, and the game "is not responding." It will not load at all. This happens when I try to reload a game. say, after a death in-game, and it does the same thing if I save it at the end of the night and try to continue playing the next day. Same, same. I even tried to go back to the next oldest save (45 min older), but it would not load either, and neither would the save behind that--a save that was three hours back. Please fix the save system! I can't keep playing the same first hour or two of the game over, and over, and over again! I have 50 hours played time, and I have not yet made it to the footpad camp! I have come close, but no cigar!

Hello prometheus,

thank you for your feedback. Yes, this is a known bug caused by the save/load feature which is not finally developed yet.

Game runs the best if it is not loaded, we are still working on save/load feature, but unfortunately this is a very complex topic and save/load feature will not be in its final version very soon.

Thanks
